The Five Senses

Senses let us (1) experience / look at the world around us. But what (2) feels / senses are there? Well, you can see (3) forms / shapes and colours with your eyes, you can taste food with your (4) tongue / mouth, you can hear music with your ears, you can smell with your nose and you can feel things like (5) text / texture or temperature with your hands.

These five things, seeing, tasting, hearing, smelling and feeling, are all senses. They're very interesting because they're different in everybody. Some people have got a good sense of (6) hearing / sounding and they're good with music. Others have got a (7) good / strong sense of smell or a strong sense of taste. Do you know that the sense of smell affects the sense of taste? If we've got the flu and we (8) sneeze / sneezing a lot, we have difficulties to distinguish what's (9) savoury / salty, sour, sweet or bitter. Can you taste everything when you've got the flu?

Change the sentences to the negative.

1 Sarah's got a strong sense of smell.

Sarah hasn't got a strong sense of smell.

2 James sees the different shapes.
