

About the company

Tourist agency Adriatic.hr situated in Split was founded in year 2000. We are one of the leading travel agencies in Croatia providing online services. Our experience has always been the best guideline for going forward, as well as for enriching our offer, improving our web site and in increasing the quality of our service. We consider that the agency today is a rightful holder of its motto "The shortest way to the Adriatic."

Adriatic.hr's main goal is a satisfied client - before, during and after using our services. We are dedicated to provide our users with a pleasant stay at a location of their choice. Our agency is always at guest's disposal, from the moment they make a reservation till the end of their stay.

At Adriatic.hr we try to achieve a professional and transparent relationship with our customers and house owners based on the rich experience and flexibility as well as building and maintaining trust as a common platform for success in domestic and foreign market.

The first years of the agency's business conduct were characterized by an expansive development. The result of a determined and quality work is an intense and constant increase in the number of guests using our services. We offer reliable services to our guests and users, in accordance with their individual needs, and we place a special emphasis to the communication with the guest.

There are 40 permanent employees at the agency, and during high season this number increases up to 80 and more employees. Adriatic.hr team is composed of young, highly-educated, creative and dynamic people of high professional standard and initiative.
